1 Logging in

Dina gives you a username and a password (or you create an account yourself on the front page). Your progress saves automatically and follows you to any phone, tablet or computer.

1. Open scliffe93.github.io/Espanolwithdina.
2. Tap Log in, or your name if you have used that device before, and enter your password.
3. The first time, the app shows you a recovery code. Save it somewhere safe: it is the only way to reset your password.

Change the temporary password Dina gave you: Settings → Account → change password.

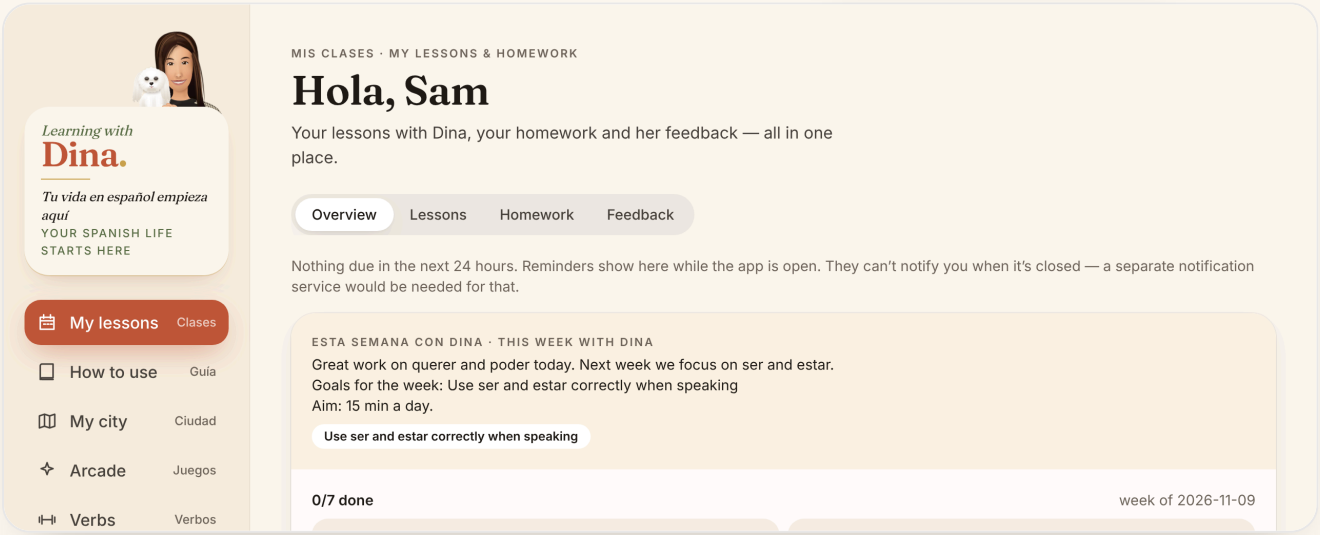

2 Your home: My lessons

My lessons is your home page. It shows your next lesson with Dina (in your time zone, with the meeting link or address), This week with Dina, your homework and her latest feedback.

This week with Dina is the note she wrote after your lesson, your goals for the week, and the tasks day by day. Tap Start on a task and the app opens the real activity: a verb drill, a game, a chapter, a recording.

- ✓ Green = done. Red = overdue. Reminders appear in the app as tasks come due.
- ✓ Some tasks are added by the app itself: a shorter re-try when something went badly, a stretch task when it went very well.

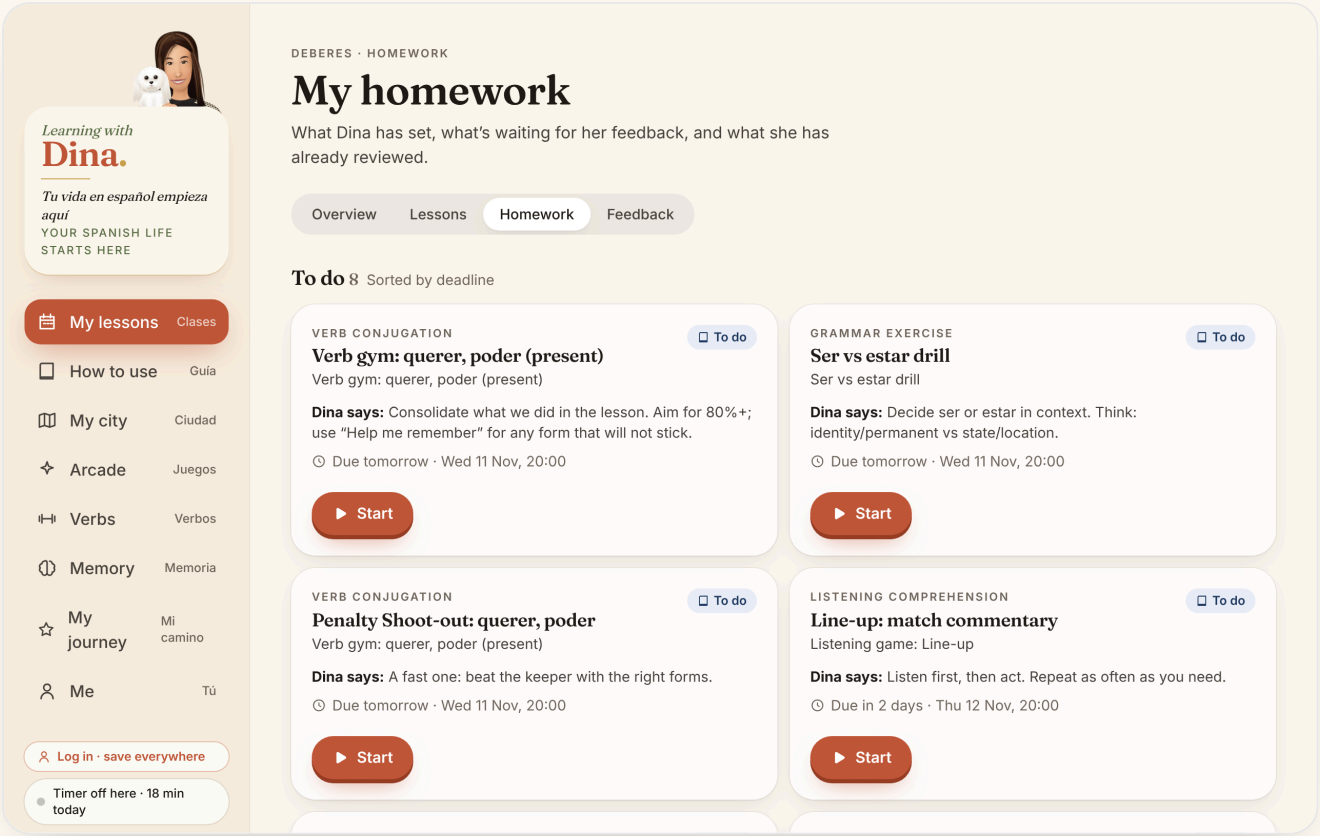

On a laptop: next lesson, this week with Dina, homework and feedback side by side.

3 Doing your homework

The Homework page lists everything Dina has set, with the deadline and what each task involves.

Homework: due soon, assigned, submitted and reviewed.

- Verb drills and games score themselves; you see the result straight away and Dina sees it too.
- Written homework opens an editor with a word count. Speaking homework opens the recorder; listen back, re-record if you like, then submit. Recordings stay on your device unless you share them.
- Dina's feedback on a task appears under the task and on your Feedback page.

4 Learning on your own

Between lessons the whole app is yours. Ten minutes a day beats an hour once a week.

My city

Live your city in Spanish, chapter by chapter. Speak your replies out loud.

Verbs

Type the forms. Use Help me remember when one will not stick: it joins your memory deck.

Memory

Spaced repetition brings back exactly the words and verbs you are about to forget.

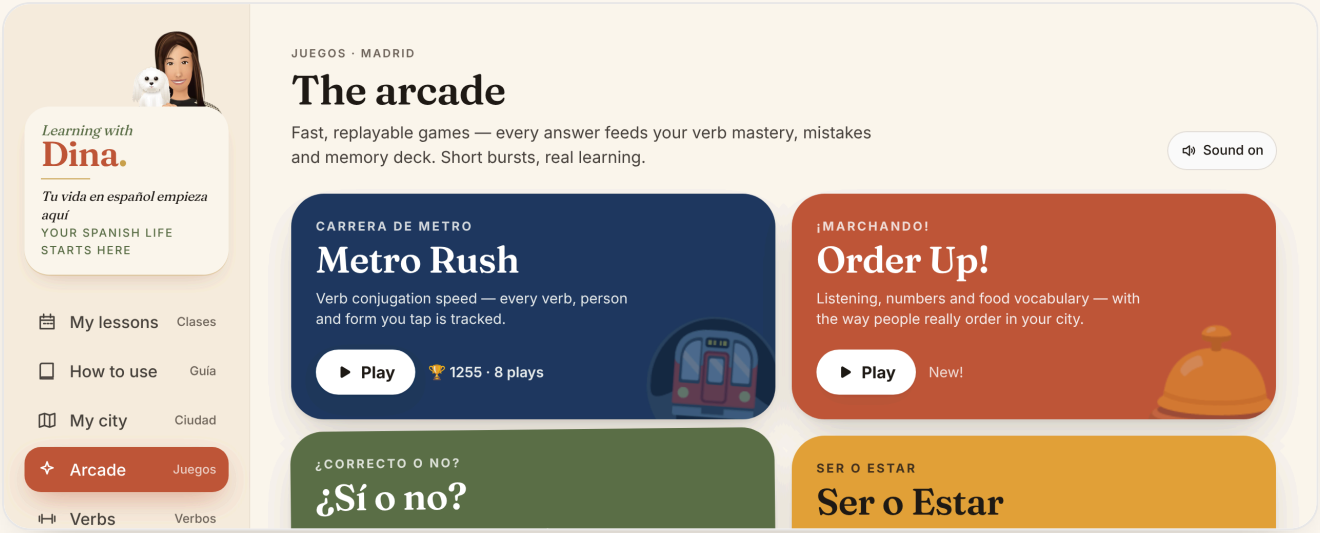

Arcade

Seven games built on your verbs, listening and vocabulary, including the football games for your city.

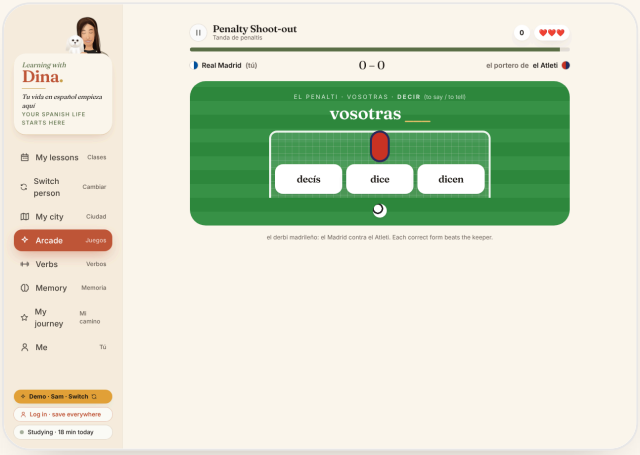

My city: your storyline, practice and games for the city you chose.

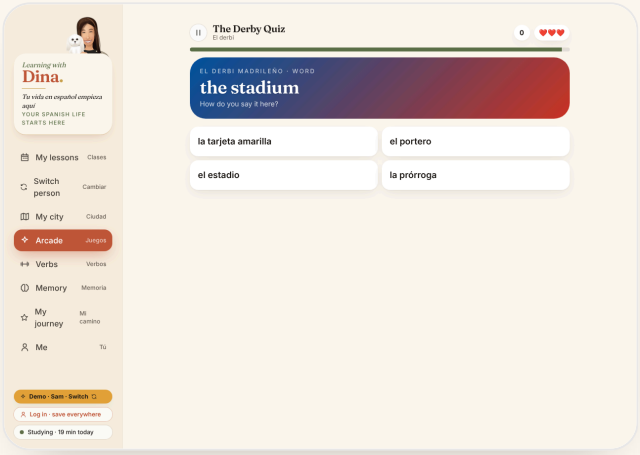

5 The arcade and the football games

The arcade.

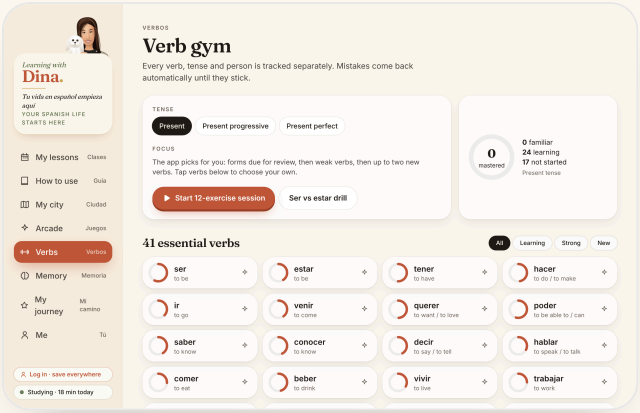

Penalty Shoot-out: verb forms as penalties against the rival club's keeper.

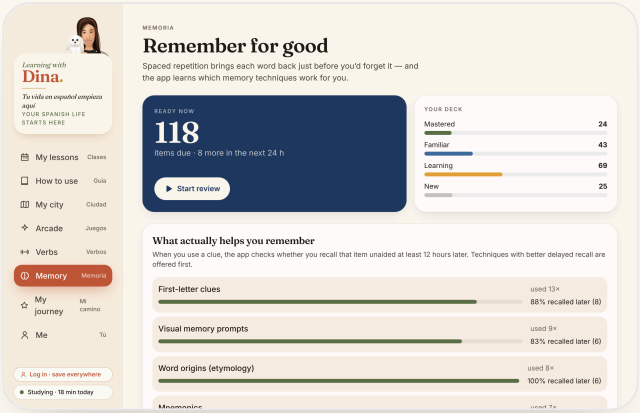

The Derby Quiz: football words the way your region says them, plus your city's clubs.

Line-up plays you a line of match commentary about your city's clubs; put the words in order. Everything you answer in a game counts as practice and feeds your memory deck.

6 Verbs and memory

Verb gym: choose a tense and the verbs to drill.

Memory review: the cards due today.

- ✔ Accents matter: type them. On a phone, hold the letter; on a computer use the keys shown.
- ✔ Add a personal association to a card you keep forgetting; the app tracks which memory techniques work for you.

7 How the app adapts to you

You never have to decide what to practise. The app watches what you do and adjusts.

Under 60% on a task	A shorter re-try appears two days later.
90% or more on a verb drill	A stretch task appears in the next tense.
Memory deck	Words and verbs come back just before you would forget them.
Your mistakes	Drills lean towards the verbs and patterns you get wrong most.
Dina’s debrief	Each week’s plan is built from her notes and your own data.

Nothing here uses an outside AI service. It is the app’s own rules over what you actually did, and Dina can see every result.

8 Your journey and feedback

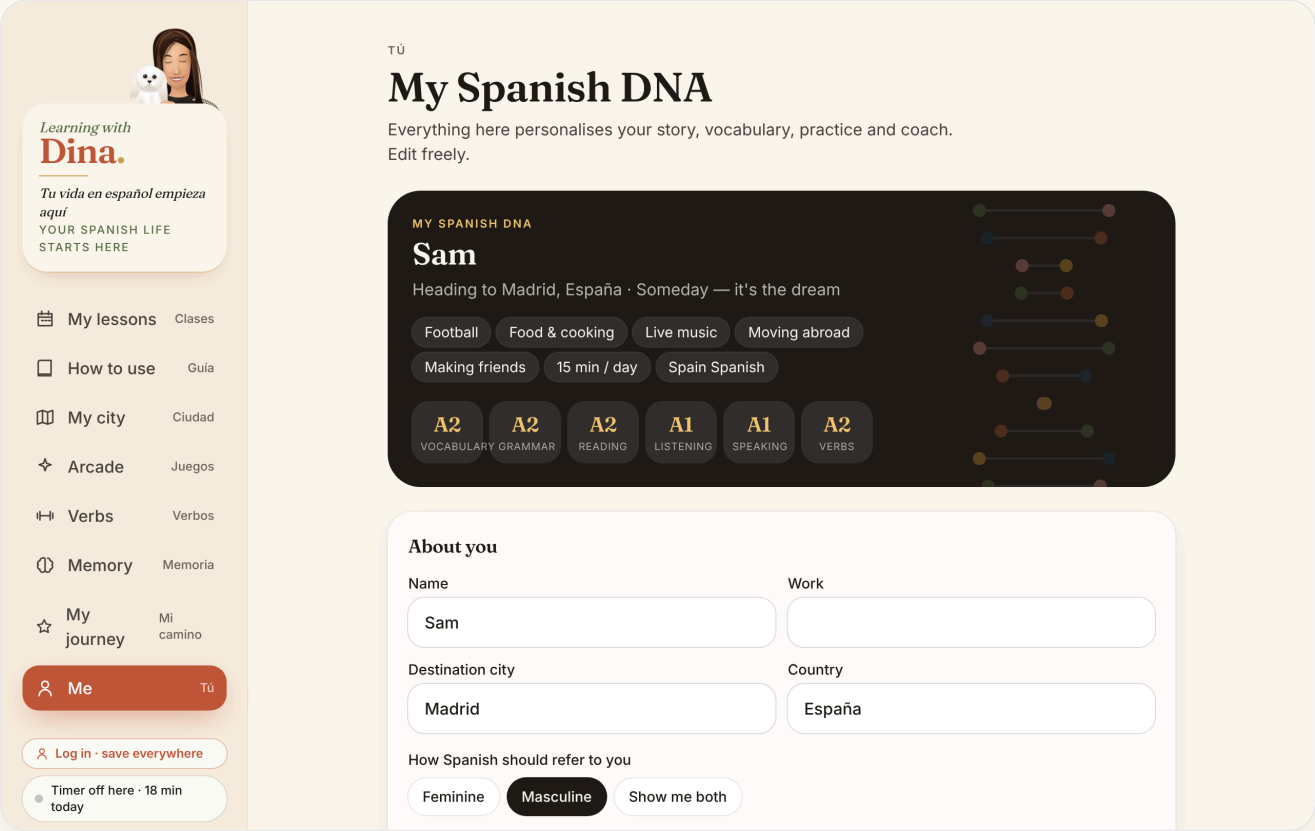

My journey: level per skill, study days, trends, your most common slips and what to work on.

Feedback: Dina's lesson notes, comments, corrections and recommendations.

9 Settings and your account

Settings: voice and speech speed, translations, your city, data and account.

Voice

Pick the Spanish voice you like best; natural voices are marked. Slow the speech down while you are learning.

Password and recovery

Change your password any time. Forgotten it? Use your recovery code on the login page; a new code is issued.

Install on your phone

Open the site in your browser and add it to the home screen. It works offline; progress syncs when you are back online.

Logging out

Settings → Account → Log out. On a shared device, your name stays on the front page for a quick return; tap the × to remove it.
